BIO

Creative visual designer, project manager, and strategist, with experience in communications, politics, and media. I'm interested in all forms of design, content, and management. Early in my career, I studied studio art and worked as an arts coordinator and business strategist, gaining experience and a passion for using my design skills to inspire others and champion causes I believe in. Currently I am using my design and strategy skills for political causes, non-profits, education, and human rights campaigns. I love collecting vintage campaign buttons.
